sunday morning spotlight

In light of the recent earthquake in Kathmandu, the most important step of helping is to pray and, more specifically, for Dan & Sheryl Ingle. The Ingles are missionaries that Crossroads has supported for many years.

The other opportunity is to give finances to help make it possible for those on the front lines to have the needed supplies to help. Although there are many organizations helping and needing support we can be left with uncertainty as to how our funds will be used, etc. So if you would like to help financially here are two organizations you can give to and fully trust the manner in which the funds will be used. We are connected with both organizations through our Crossroads ministry. Please consider giving to one of these if you desire to do so.

www.studiotenministries.org - this is the ministry of Dan and Sheryl Ingle. They have shared numerous times at Crossroads and are right at the heart of all that is happening in Nepal.

www.reachglobalcrisisresponse.wordpress.com - ReachGlobal is the missions branch of our Evangelical Free Church association. Let's be generous in a time of great need!

this month's marriage moment...

"Be aware of gender differences. How we listen needs to be tailored to the person speaking. Women tend to give more response and feedback while they're listening. Their responses aren't necessarily agreement; they usually mean, 'I understand' or 'I'm connecting with you.' Men say less when they listen, and their feedback usually means, 'I agree with you.' A woman often learns that when she's listening to a man, he may not need as much feedback as a woman would. When she listens quietly to a man, he may respond with words like, 'Thanks for really listening to me. It helps me keep my mind on track when I'm not interrupted.' On the other hand, when a man listens to a woman, he may need to remind himself to give her verbal reassurance that she is being heard." - Focus on the Family's "Thriving Family" magazine
